And wamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap, Had scuffled our brains for a long winter's nap. When out on the lawn there rose such a clatter, I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter. Away to the window I flew like a flash, Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.

A Missil from St. Nicholas

As I drew in my head and was turning around, Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound. He was dressed all in fur from his head to his foot, And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot. A bundle of toys he had flung on his back, And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.

The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow, Gave a lustre of mid-day to objects below; When what to my wonder, I saw every where, But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer, With a little old driver so lively and quick, I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.

CHRISTMAS

His eyes how they twinkled! His dimples how merry! His cheeks were like roses, His nose like a cherry. His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow, And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow. The stump of his pipe he held tight in his teeth, And the smoke, it encircled his head like a wreath.

More rapid than eagles his coursers they came, He whistled and shouted, and called them by name! "Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer! now, Vixen! On, Comet! on, Cupid! on, Dunder and Blitzen! To the top of the porch to the top of the wall! Now, dash away, dash away, dash away all!"

CHRISTMAS

He had a broad face and a little round belly That shook when he laugh'd like a bowl full of jelly. He was chubby and plump—a right jolly old elf—And I laugh'd when I saw him in spite of myself. A wink of his eye and a twist of his head, soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread. He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work, And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk

As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly, When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky, So, up to the house-top the couriers they flew, With the sleigh full of toys and St. Nicholas too. And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof, The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.

CHRISTMAS

And laying his finger aside of his nose, And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose. He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle, And away they all flew like the down of a thistle! But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight, "Happy Christmas to all and to all a good-night!"

CHRISTMAS BELL

Legend has it that when Christ was born and Satan died, the bells in the churches were rung. At exactly midnight the tolling changed to a joyful peal, announcing the birth of the Christ.

In the dark chambers high above the turmoil and strife of human life, dwell the Apostles of Peace, whose salutations were never so welcome as at the time of the great winter feasts of Christmas, so William Auld tells in his traditions.

All's Fair

My ears have turned to cups as I listen out for news; My eyes are strained to catch a glimpse of something to amuse. So, Santa, if you please, I need a hearing aid; A pair of fine binoculars—be sure they come prepaid. Another thing, dear Santa, if it's not too much to ask, Bring me a magic pen to write my weekly task. And to everyone who reads ALL'S FAIR: the best of luck to you;

A very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, too! P.S. Don't forget the Coleman boys—Leodel and Jim. For, after all, Dear Santa, I get my check from them.

BULLOCH BOYS TAKE CHARGE: This report on the Chicago convention is, we warn you, not the type you'll get at the Rotary or Chamber of Commerce meetings or at your local Farm Bureau meeting. So take it or leave it . . .

Jane will attempt to trail along with Aubert and Lingo Brannen and their three children. Aubert, Jr., Bob Barry, and Jane; Henry and Joe Blitch and their sons, Jimmie and Smets; Byron Dyer and their children, Frederick and Marie. So now you know what you're in for. Anybody who keeps up with Aubert Brannen makes it from here to yonder in record time . . . Our folks were all at the Stephens Hotel. At the lovely Boulevard Room, Aubert, Henry, Joe and Lingo, and Julian and Pearl Brannen nonchalantly stroll in, take a seat and finger the menu. They order and get a few dishes of lobster a la king and a couple of broilers. They also pick up a bill for $44. For the rest of the time the other women from Bulloch ribbed Lingo and Joe with such queries as, "Well, Lingo, when do you and Jo expect to get your dividends from your investment in the Stephens Hotel?" The children in the party attracted lots of attention. No wonder—they're attractive children. It seems that they were the first children who had attended the convention. In addition to children already mentioned were Robert and Raymond Hagan, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hagan.

The Atlanta Journal correspondent tried to round them up for a picture for his paper, but the twins were the only ones he could ever catch together. They visited the National Historical Museum, the Aquarium, and the Planetarium. While they were observing primitive life in a cave, Smets was visibly distressed over the nude figure of a boy apparently his own age. "Mrs.

Brannen," he said quite seriously, "Don't it look like they'd put some clothes on that little boy?" They were naturally enchanted by Marshall Fields. Santa Claus was assisted there by Mr. Mistletoes, like midget Santa Clauses. A colonnade of giant red peppermint candy sticks and Mistletoe boys directed the children to Candy Lane, a toy shop, where Jane Brannen made a beeline for the imported dolls. They were only $100 or $125. Jane settled for a Diddle doll with magic skin and a complete wardrobe in a white trunk. Smets and Jane posed long and patiently while a sidewalk artist made crayon sketches of them. . . . Bob, when asked what he liked best about his trip to the stockyards, instantly replied, "Sampling the meat. Mother," Bob, we understand what you mean.

The nicest side trip the Bulloch group enjoyed was due to Aubert Brannen's maneuvering. He arranged with the International Harvester Tractor Division to carry the group through the factory. Buses and a Packard limousine were sent from the factory to pick up sixty-seven members of the party who had the opportunity to go through the foundry and see the parts made, put together, painted, and rolled off the assembly line, with each exhaust pipe marked in chalk, indicating its destination. Luncheon was served for the entire group . . .

Excitement added flavor to the trip. Charley Zetterower was edged out of a group consisting of his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Zetterower, and Mr. and Mrs. Dew Smith. An old gentleman, dressed in a cave, approached Charley for help. Charley was sympathetic. The old gentleman sort of pushed him away from the group and suddenly three stalwart fellows appeared and demanded his money. Dew and Willie rushed to his assistance and the things vanished. . . . Mrs. Hobson Wyatt was not quite so lucky. At a movie she laid her pocketbook on an empty seat beside her. Absorbed in the picture, she was vaguely conscious of a man who came in and sat beside her and left a bit later. As she started to leave she reached for her pocketbook, which was open, and $95 were missing. But Lingo still wonders how Aubert managed to get tickets to see the Chicago Bears and the Cardinals tangle at Wrigley Field. They were told that there was only standing room left. But Aubert promised them tickets. He sauntered up to a luscious blonde at the desk in the lobby of the hotel. He told her what he wanted—so the story goes. Anyway, they were told to go to a certain gate and say, "This is Mr. Brannen calling for his tickets." The tickets were handed out promptly and were for box seats on the 40-yard line and only cost $7 per . . . And, to complete the picture for them, Charlie Trippi broke loose for a 40-yard run, and probably no one yelled louder than Aubert, Henry and Byron. . . . Country come to town. Well—you've got something there . . .

KNOW GRANDMOTHER BLITCH was proud of that lovely picture in Sunday's Morning News of Shelly Shearouse, a Savannah debutante. Jane remembers so well that month in May when the little girl arrived on Zetterower Avenue—and Fred and Elizabeth thought I knew so much about college dress, etc., because I had a son just two months old. . . . Shirley, a niece of Cora Smith and Georgia Brett, graduated with honors at Pace School and is doing nicely for herself at Vassar. . . . And have you seen the bright Christmas wreath on Georgia's car. A small boy said, "Oh! Look at that pretty car."

HAVE YOU HEARD THIS ONE on Chick Jones? The evening that the Masons entertained their women folk at the College

Bulloch Farmers Find Other Farmers Just Like Their Folk

"All the people in the world must be in this store," Roger Hagan, one of the twins of Dan W. Hagan, said while in the world's largest department store last week. Raymond, the other twin, later asked why the United States is so big.

These observations express the general feeling of the some thirty-four troopers who at the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago last week.

The highlight of the trip was the earnest manner in which the farmers from the entire country went about planning to improve living conditions and standards of life in rural America. Every one of the 7,000 present looked exactly like honest-to-goodness Americans. It was impossible to tell from which section of the country the delegates were from so far as appearances were concerned, even though the brogue would designate their home section when they began talking.

There were no delegates talked from the corners of their mouths, or who looked foreign, or acted as if they expected any personal gains from the efforts of the organization.

These 7,000 farmers were interested in America and what the country had to offer Americans and the rest of the world.

Outstanding speakers such as President Edward A. O'Neill, Warren Austin, of the United Nations group, David E. Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission, Senator Edward Thye of Minnesota, Congressman Harold Cooley of North Carolina, Dean Henry Rusk of the College of Agriculture of Illinois, Charles F. Kettering, research director of General Motors, and others appeared on the program.

Mrs. C. M. Cowart was one of Georgia's voting delegates to the associated women's meeting of the Farm Bureau.

The group left Statesboro December 12 by special bus and made up the Georgia train at Macon at 7 p. m. They arrived in St. Louis on Saturday at noon. A sightseeing tour was arranged that carried them through all parts of the city, including the famous gardens and museums containing the many Lindbergh trophies. That evening the group shopped and took in shows of their choice. They left St. Louis at midnight.

The train arrived in Chicago early Sunday. All registered at the Stephens Hotel, the world's largest. Most of the group went on a tour of Chicago by bus that afternoon, with a few getting tickets to the Chicago Bears-Cardinals football game.

Most of the group visited all points of interest in Chicago during the next four days, such as the stockyards where Swift and Company conducted them on a tour of the packing plant and gave them lunch; the International Harvester tractor plant, where they saw ordinary iron emerge as a running tractor and had another good meal; the museums, department stores, grain exchange, night clubs, and buildings of importance.

Several members bought an interest in the night clubs, or rather, they paid for a share or more, but did not get titles to their part. One lady lost $95 to a pickpocket in St. Louis. One man caught a pickpocket's hands in his coat pocket. Some bought an interest in the dry cleaners and beauty parlor establishments. Otherwise, prices of things bought, and food as well as hotel bills were not excessive. Most of the group came back within their estimate of the expenses anticipated.

Mrs. W. O. Griner was ill most of the stay in Chicago and could not see Chicago, but other than simply going out once in a while all the others kept on the move and expressed themselves as wanting to make any future trips to the convention.

The weather was "beautiful" the entire week. There was some three inches of snow on the ground when they arrived in Chicago, but no rain or snow fell while they were there. The temperature ranged from 17 to 35 degrees.

The group went to the station Thursday afternoon late to return home and found the University of Michigan's football team there, loading up for the Rose Bowl game. Mrs. Jo Blitch tried to talk Henry into not coming home, but going with the Michigan team to California. W. C. Hodges, Jr., got on the train with them through mistake. The porter tried to load Frederick Dyer on with the Michigan boys.

The group returned home Friday night. Aubert Brannen, Jr., stated when he arrived that he had just seen so much he would have to forget part of it to remember what he did see. That is about the summary the entire group placed on the week's tour of the Midwest and Chicago.

Industrial Arts Building is OKed

Application for an Industrial Arts Building, to be located South of the Laboratory High School, the building will face North towards the drive which continues past the gymnasium. This site was chosen, according to Dr. Hostetter, because the terrain is almost ideal and leaves ample room for the proposed Fine Arts Building which, when constructed, will be placed between the site of the new Industrial Arts building and the gymnasium.

"When the basement of the gym has been excavated," Dr. Hostetter said, "the shower rooms now located upstairs will probably be removed and provided for on the basement floor."

Tentative plans are being made also for the removal of the balcony and stairs on the main floor of the gym and the installation of bleachers. It was revealed.

When completed, the Industrial Arts building will contain a large drafting room, metal shop, general shop, planning room, finishing room, an office and two rest rooms. A room 12 feet by 18 feet will be built onto the rear of the structure and will contain two hot air furnaces for heating purposes.

Plans for the new building were drawn up by Dr. Hostetter and Professor John H. Erickson, also of the Industrial Arts department, and were submitted to the engineer in charge at the Federal Works Administration, Atlanta. The plans met all requirements and the contract is expected to be let to a private construction firm by December 20. Actual work on the building will probably begin in early January, Dr. Hostetter said.

In applying for a new school structure of this sort," Dr. Hostetter explained, "it is necessary to present to authorities in Washington a definite need for the building. After the need has been justified, Washington gives the Federal Works Administration the go-ahead and blueprints are presented for approval. A con-

Whatever Name, Santa Is There

SANTA CLAUS is not always the merry, jovial, fat-clad saint behind a team of reindeer. There are almost as many versions of Santa as there are nationalities—Father Christmas, Kris Kringle, St. Nicholas or even Babonka. But, whatever his name, he is loved and welcomed by all children.

In America on Christmas Eve there is a merry tinkling of sleigh bells as Santa Claus drives up in a sleigh drawn by eight reindeer, pauses just long enough to climb down and fill the children's stockings with toys and goodies. Gifts too large to be stuffed in the stockings are tied on glittering evergreen trees.

mas custom to England from Germany.

In Finland Santa has elves who pass out gifts for him. This generous group is known as Wainemomen and Aho.

Babonka, a young and beautiful girl, brings the gifts in Russia. Grandfather Frost accompanies Babonka in a sleigh as she makes her rounds on Christmas Eve.

Italy has no Santa Claus, but in his place is a benevolent old witch, Befana, who sails through the air on a broom stick. She leaves her presents for the children beside the hearth.

Papa Noel, who is very similar to Santa Claus, reigns in Brazil. Like Santa, he wears a red suit and travadorned with tinsel, gay ornaments and lighted candles, or electrical lights now in vogue.

It's not always Santa who brings gifts to children in other lands. The Dutch children anxiously await the arrival of St. Nicholas. He was the bishop of Myra, so he is dressed in the traditional bishop's robes of black, wears a mitre and carries the crozier. He rides a white horse named "Sleipner" and is accompanied by Black Peter, his page boy. Instead of hanging up their stockings, Dutch children place their wooden shoes in the chimney corner before going to bed. On the window sill they leave a bunch of hay for "Sleipner." It is customary for St. Nicholas to overturn chairs and leave the room in general confusion for Christmas morning.

THE English children look for a Santa Claus who closely resembles our own. They also find gifts tied to a green Christmas tree but this custom has been in effect only since Queen Victoria was a young bride. Her husband, Albert, a German prince, introduced this Christ-

FAMILY WITH NO HOME FOR XMAS... BUILDS FIRE WITH KEROSENE

We know one family with no home for Christmas... and all because they forgot that using kerosene is not the way to start a fire!

Logan Hagan, chief of the Statesboro Fire Department, reported a fire at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning of this week. It's cause was traced to the use of kerosene to start a fire in a stove. And now the man is in the hospital with both hands and legs badly burned and his family with no home for Christmas.

Mr. Hagan states that the cause of most fire calls they've had this winter is the use of oils in starting fires. He urges people to be careful. "Fire is a dangerous thing, and we cannot be too careful."

Christmas Held Twice Yearly

If children instead of their parents were allowed to choose the family homestead, the tiny fishing village of Rodanthe, N. C., would become a metropolitan overnight. Here's a place they celebrate two Christmases every year.

Santa Claus, his reindeer scampering over the sands of North Carolina's outer banks, makes his first stop in Rodanthe during his annual world tour on the night of December 24. Hardly have the children recovered from their over-supply of candy and wild duck when Santa returns in time for "Old Christmas," which for hundreds of years Rodantheans have celebrated on January 5. This time, however, Santa is accompanied by a menacing ogre, known as "Old Buck."

Dodge Introduces New Trucks

Among the 248 basic gross vehicle weight chassis models just announced in the new Dodge "Job-Rated" truck line is this B-1-H tractor of 128-inch wheelbase, 15,500 pounds gross vehicle weight (1½-ton nominal rating) and 38,000 pounds gross train weight. The trucks have many new features.

DODGE OFFERS 248 TRUCKS IN COMPLETE NEW LINE

A completely new line of Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks comprising 248 basic chassis models ranging from 4,250 to 23,000 pounds gross vehicle weight and up to 40,000 pounds gross train weight was announced today by L. F. VanNortick, Director of Truck Sales of the Dodge Division, Chrysler Corporation.

Some models of the new trucks will be displayed starting January 7 by Lannie F. Simmons in Statesboro.

A combination of massive strength and smoothly flowing lines is the keynote of styling for the new trucks. They were designed to combine appearance with comfort, safety, performance, economy and ease of handling.

Front axles have been moved back and engines have been moved forward to place more of the gross vehicle weight on the front axle and provide better weight distribution. The wheelbase for conventional models through 2-ton has been reduced eight inches, while the 2½- and 3-ton models have been reduced six inches. The new trucks have been engineered so that despite shorter wheelbases, the cab-to-axle dimensions remain practically unchanged, making it possible to use the same length bodies as before.

New ease of handling and driving has been provided by the shorter wheelbases and wider tread front axle, together with cross steering, which is a new feature on all conventional cab models. The cross steering permits a 37-degree turning angle both right and left. Drivers now can park or back into alleys or up to loading platforms with much greater ease. Road shock through the steering wheel is greatly reduced by the cross steering, which has the drag link running parallel with the front axle.

Standard, deluxe and custom cabs provide more room, more visibility and more safety, and more comfort for the driver.

Seat width has been increased to 57½ inches to permit three large men to ride without crowding. Chair-height seats provide leg support under the knees and can be adjusted seven inches. The natural back support also is adjustable for maximum comfort.

The seat cushion utilizes air in combination with coil springs to provide comfort. A hand control allows the driver to adjust cushion buoyancy to his weight or road conditions.

Comfort in any season or any weather heating and ventilation system which is an ingenious combination of truck heater, defroster vents, vent windows, cow ventilator, and fresh air intake.

Deluxe and custom cabs have what is termed "90-degree vision" through increased glass area and installation of rear quarter windows. Windshields and windows of the new "Pilot House" cabs are higher and wider, adding to vision and safety. Drivers can enter or leave the conventional cab easily from either side since the gear shift and emergency levers have been moved forward to give clear floor space from door to door.

Conventional models can be road serviced from the left side as the fuel tank, oil filler, radiator, and battery are located.

Dodge has seven different engines to handle the power requirements of its new line. Numerous engine improvements have been made.

Braking systems are larger and improved. Front and rear axles have increased load-carrying capacity. Front springs are longer. Radiator cores have been redesigned to facilitate better cooling. Exceptional improvements have been made in frame construction.

Christmas Once Again

The silent skies are full of speech For who hath ears to hear: The winds are whispering each to each.

The moon is calling to the beach, And stars their sacred wisdom teach Of Faith, and Love, and Fear.

But once the sky its silence broke And song o'erflowed the earth, And forest wild and murmuring rill, And fruitful field and breezy hill, And all that else the wide world fill Are vocal with His Name.

And Christmas once is Christmas still: The gates through which He came, And forest wild and murmuring rill, And fruitful field and breezy hill, And all that else the wide world fill Are vocal with His Name.

Shall we not listen while they sing This latest Christmas morn, And music hear in everything, And faithful lives in tribute bring To the great song which greets the King?

Who comes when Christ is born? —Phillips Brooks

The Yule Log

The bringing of the yule log originated in England during medieval times. The log was dragged into the great hall at the beginning of the Christmas feast and was the occasion of the rendering of the Christmas toast, which is, in part: "This yule log burns, it destroys old hatreds and misunderstandings. Let your envious vanish, and let the spirit of good fellowship reign supreme for this season and through all the year."

The yule log represents, "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

WEXFORD CAROL

Near Bethlehem did shepherds keep Their flocks of lambs and feeding sheep; To whom God's angels did appear, Which put the shepherds in great fear.

"Prepare and go," the angels said, "To Bethlehem, be not afraid; For there you'll find this happy morn, A princely babe, sweet Jesus born."

Two large Christmas trees dominated the scene. The mantle with greenery trailing over a lattice background held rambling white flowers interspersed with gay Christmas balls in iridescent colors. Brass candelabra holding Christmas candles added to the charm of the club room.

All members served as hostesses. The men's dance cards had novelty toys attached and the ladies' cards held jaunty peppermint candy canes.

Music was furnished by Harry Applewhite's Orchestra from Savannah. Fifty-six couples were present.

The Library Committee was host for the afternoon.

Christmas Trees Of Many Kinds

FROM forests and woodlots of the United States a torrent of green rolls into the cities during pre-holiday weeks as farmers and foresters market their annual crop of Christmas trees.

The twinkling tree which adds holiday cheer to practically every home in the nation is one of America's most invariable domestic habits. As a result, it has brought the Christmas tree business into the realm of "big business." Some 14 million evergreens are required annually. Their retail value has soared into the quarter billion dollar vicinity, the 1946 returns being estimated at $2 million dollars.

Cash returns from the sale of Christmas trees represent only a small fraction of their value to American agriculture. Thousands of farmers are using the lively evergreen to anchor sand lands to protect the shifting soil from further erosion.

With exception of the prairie lands, virtually every state in the union produces Christmas trees, at least for local consumption. In the West, Colorado and Montana are the heavy exporters while in the East, the New England states compete with Canadian growers for the American markets. Inland, the heart of the Christmas tree country centers on upper Michigan, northern Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Christmas With the Pioneers Held Deep Religious Meaning

CHRISTMAS on the frontier, as new bands of pioneers pushed ever westward to carve an empire out of virgin plains and wildernesses, was in marked contrast to the present holiday.

There was more meaning then in the words of The Book concerning shepherds in a certain country watching their flocks by night. The solitude, the closeness of the stars, the virginity of the new world and its humble people made one feel that time had stood still. Christmas in those days somehow seemed much closer to that first Christmas. Those bleak plains could be the ones the Wise Men crossed, the Night and one sleeping village, Bethlehem. The faith of the trail breakers was that of the Wise Men.

On Christmas Eve the pioneer folks would gather in a crude little church or schoolhouse where children recited their pieces and sang songs about the birth of the Christ Child. Santa would hand out mosquito-bar socks of candy, a golden orange or an apple to each one, and childhood rapture would make that meager offering truly a gift of gold and frankincense.

HOME-MADE sleds and sleighs skimmed over the snowy countryside with sleigh bells jingling merrily to the carrying of "Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells."

Except in the forest regions, few children enjoyed the sight of a Christmas tree. But always they hung up their stockings, an old custom of their forefathers.

It was a lucky boy who awoke Christmas morning to find a new jack-knife in his stocking; a lucky girl who received a string of beads and, often followed by a turkey dinner costing 25 cents. Gifts, if any, generally were in the form of utilitarian mittens, mufflers or homemade boots. For the intricate handicraft to which some enterprising friend had devoted her spare time for months.

Throughout the holiday season a candle burned in the attic window, guiding late-faring travelers to shelter—the Star of Bethlehem on the frontier.

But without these hardy folks had as much fun as their great-grandsons and daughters who again this year will celebrate by exchanging elaborate gifts and dancing to name bands, feasting with no worries that tomorrow there may be nothing in the electric refrigerator.

dining hall was one of those nice, foggy ones, if you remember. Chick assisted Mary Beth from the car and went around on the other side to see if he had parked correctly, etc., and came around and in his cavalier fashion took what he thought was Mary Beth's arm. Not until he was inside did he discover his mistake. The husband of the lady thus escorted looked on with amusement and when he noticed Chick's chagrin, said, "That's all right, you can have her." As Mary Beth and Chick took their places, it was easy to see that Mary Beth was on the verge of the silly giggles. Please, Mary Beth, don't be offended. That's what I used to have when something struck me as being very funny when I was supposed to be dignified. Chick very solemnly asked the person next to him if he could see in the dark. Then Mary Beth found relief from her pent-up amusement as she related the incident.

Heavy Mail Coming Up for Santa

Children of the first grades at the Dawson, Calif., elementary school, had a special box in which they deposited their mail to Santa. All were on their best behavior, for they have no way of knowing whether or not one of Santa's gnome helpers may be peering through the slit. Hundreds of thousands of letters were mailed to Santa from all parts of the world.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

The old Cherry Tree card, or the legend upon which it is based, is undoubtedly the reason for the custom of placing a branch of cherry tree in water to bud for Christmas time.

According to this legend, Mary and Joseph on their way to Bethlehem passed a tree loaded with cherries. Mary was hungry for some of the fruit and asked Joseph to pluck some cherries for her. The tree graciously bowed down so that Mary could pick the fruit herself.

It has been customary among the Czechs and Slovaks to take the branch of a cherry tree and place it in water in the late fall so that the buds reach the blossoming stage at Christmas time.

The belief was current that if the sprig blossomed by Christmas Eve, the girl who tended it would marry during the New Year.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

Christmas Visit to The Seven Fountains

In 1540 when a plague was raging in Switzerland, 12 pious men of Rheinfelden formed a brotherhood to pray for St. Sebastian's aid, and to nurse the sick and bury the dead. In medieval times was accorded to evil spirits in water, so the Brotherhood of St. Sebastian visited each of the town's seven fountains, praying and singing hymns at each stop. They still continue this custom, but only on Christmas Eve. For this ritual the 12 brothers are dressed in black, with black silk top hats. At every fountain they gather around the lantern-bearer and sing a medieval song. The march begins at the Froeschwiler fountain, where the plague is supposed to have started three centuries ago. When they have passed the seventh, they enter the church for midnight mass, and ceremoniously place their lantern on the altar of St. Sebastian.

The new building has 4,500 square feet of floor space. It will be completely air conditioned, with both heating and cooling systems.

One of the features of the new location will be plenty of parking space with no parking-meter bother for their customers.

In making the announcement of the move, the Rocker brothers remind the public of the services they offer. They service all items they sell.

Included in the lines they offer are Bendix washing machines, radios, ironers and dryers; Youngstown and American kitchen equipment; Crosley refrigerators and ranges; Electromaster ranges and water heaters; Quaker oil heaters; Kresky oil heaters and floor furnaces.

The call attention to the fact that they carry a full line of gas equipment and gas systems, as well as complete commercial equipment in both electrical appliances and gas appliances.
